MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

As did Macbeth, so have we done. We HAVE RETURNED! and echoes sound over the paper, "Here's a good summer!" "Yes, just a perfect one." Without fail, everyone, whether she sat at the beach, rounded the country or made outsides of money doing some task, is looking forward to a marvelous summer, and now that the tents are fading, the geographic knowledge increases, and we are in search of a future position with Rend McNally, and the money to spend is, the M.H.T. is back at college.

Most of us have just plain returned, but some have returned with the traditional late summer crises and stress on the third finger. However, Gardenv’s engagement was announced this summer as was Dorothy Ball’s and Ann Wadham’s. Jean Ting has just been working with U.M. and unfortunately most of us won’t be able to see her engagement ring until she returns. And also she has mentioned the engagement to the class of the chosen department, who is now Mrs. Fredrik Gilbert.

Sara Smiger is now back with Mr. and Mrs. Smiger and having been married only three weeks, she had a difficult time remembering her new name. Reports have it that Ann Store’s wedding was delightful with many Holopek girls there to catch a glimpse of the new Mrs. Kenney, and the party there was a huge hit. Malak, Jeanette Goldman, Tuffy Link and Lisa Stend. And as most of us know we are losing Miss Sislon Ellis who is to be married in the near future, and Elinor H. Johnson, the head of the class department, who is now Mrs. Fredrik Gilbert.

Some of our students have not returned yet as... Shelly Davis was to leave from England one month this week, and Judy Louder will be returning on Saturday. and Laurie Gott are spending their junior years at the University of Geneva, and we will be back next year to tell all about Sorbonne life in its American fashion. The former Junior class had a marvelous letter from Gail telling in detail about her fascinating trip over and mountain climbing experience.

And then there’s the story here about Phyl Whittington and Dig Leslay’s joiing B.A.F. guest from our campus this summer, and about Skippy Hopkins who has joined his father at his post in Germany.

THE CLASS OF 1950

The NEWS extends its heartiest welcome to the members of the half-century class of 1950.

You have probably found college life new and strange, but since you haven’t known it before, not different. To those of us who have seen the changes in student government organization and registration rules in the past two college years this life is different. It will require a double dose of understanding for you of 1950 to appreciate those changes without being perplexed. It is not difficult to imagine what it would be like, but it should not be too difficult nor too bitter a dose!

June 1950 will mark the middle of a century which has already suffered two world wars, the development of the atom bomb, and the birth year of a United Nations Organization. The course of the second half century will depend greatly upon how you and all of us understand the necessity for changes which will make us new to future generations as college life today as you envisioned.

You have four years of college ahead of you in which to learn about the changes which can improve or destroy the world, scientific, political, artistic changes reflected by thought as well as dooc, in most of your opportunities, 1950, and good luck while you do it.

TO THE NEW MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY

Welcome to the Mount Holyoke campus. We are glad you have come and that you will find it difficult to become acquainted with us and with our college. We hope too that you will find us responsive and responsible class. We are eager to see the friendly relationship between faculty and students maintained as a tradition at Mount Holyoke. Once again, welcome.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Last May the vote in the poll of the Student Curriculum Committee showed that the students were strongly in favor of a more extensive counseling system. The faculty and administration cooperated in setting up a regional counseling system with such rapidity that the incoming class will benefit from the action.

The new plan will fill a serious void in the academic life of each student and if extended to upperclassmen it should do away with the plight of the student to find herself stranded in the spring of sophomore year without a definite choice of a major in mind and unsure whom to ask for more individual assistance. All through the college career the counselor can do much to straighten out any academic tangles in which the student finds herself involved.

The NEWS wishes success to the counselors in their new venture. We feel that this plan will be a genuine help to both students and faculty.

THE FACETS OF THE FACTS

By Shirley Bushnell

We are supposed to be a very rational people. We want the facts and who looks at the statistical data. Well, we have the facts. The above table lists the data for the summer, the American-Vietnamese data, the poor Anglo-American relations are obvious enough. You can read the current documents because they do not seem to get any better. The present trial of our nation is another year concerns all of us, but being concerned is not sufficient. Peace depends upon our comprehension of, and attitude towards all occurrences.

It is towards this that the International Relations Club is working this year. Our theme "Building the Peace" is a continuation of a long-standing project, for we believe it is most important to face the present. It is broad enough to include documents of political and possible actions in all stages of international relations.

Just as the task of building the peace depends upon all students in all groups including scientists, economists, politicians, etc., the success of I.R.C. depends on the active participation of all students, no matter what year they are in or what they do in the future. We hope you will get involved.

Being well informed is the first step towards intelligent action. The newly I.R.C. editor hopes that the NEWS will attempt to point out events of interest, explain people and their personalities, and in general build a better understanding of the international social, scientific, economic or religious trends that are directly related to our chances of building peace. The week by week current events discussions and the monthly reports will keep us well informed about the happenings outside of South Hadley.

This year if the members agree we shall inaugurate a speaker bureau. This bureau would arrange for students to speak on current and group’s people’s groups. Some of these speakers might be the students starting a group that would study the possibilities of world government. This type of action might have a far greater effect than we can imagine if we become aware of the truth of our facts and do something about them.

The BENCH WARMER

Sometimes this fall there will be an evening class meeting of the Newsletter of College Women here to discuss the formation of the organization.

Rumer has it that Rupke and D. E. will be added...
The Mount Holyoke Friends of Art are currently exhibiting watercolors of historic interior scenes and landscapes by Miss Marjorie E. Garfield at the Dwight Hall art gallery. Miss Garfield, head of the department of interior decoration at Syracuse University, has spent several years and considerable means to procure her original sources in France, Germany, Austria, Spain, Italy, and Yugoslavia. Her latest venture, now being prepared for publication, is Mexican Colonial Furniture in Guate-

The faculty, the sophomores, unian, and Mr. Martin Doudas, led the singing of the evening. Conversation ceased with the singing of the traditional hymn of Mount Holyoke College, "There's a Light Upon the Mountains."

Miss Robinson Describes---

She's a native Dordogne, but her tastes were very Parisian. She was born in a small country town near the borders of France and Belgium, and was educated in Paris. She later moved to New York City, where she became a successful fashion designer.

As the end of the war, she was made assistant designer for a famous Parisian house. She later moved to London, where she opened her own fashion house. She became a successful designer and her clothes were worn by many actresses and socialites. She later moved to Hollywood, where she became a successful designer for many Hollywood stars.

Miss Robinson described the history of fashion and the influence of different cultures on the fashion industry. She also discussed her own personal experiences in the fashion industry and how she became a successful designer.

Among those left out of the conversation were the fashion designers themselves, who were not invited to speak. Miss Robinson did, however, mention a few designers who were her personal favorites.

The event was hosted by the fashion department of the University of California. The event was attended by many fashion students and industry professionals.
