Freshman House Groups
For Next Year Chosen

Ruth Gills, chairman of Community, introduced the Freshman houses presidents at the college's first Admiralty banquet, April 16, on Skinner steps. The junior group for the house presidents for 1948, included: Jessie Frosseau, E. Ann Smith, Bette Mach, Ruth Reuter, Patsy Guild, Katherine Brown, Margaret Minich, and Caryn Wogel. Mrs. Gills, next year's president, has been active in the Housing and junior service. Community was the president's house last year. She was vice-president of her class and a member of the Nominating Committee. She has been a solicitor for both the Community Chest and Hop Council. She is a member of the Freshman house groups.

The Freshman house groups total ten members, with Ralph Hewitt, president of the Freshman house groups. He is a member of the House Council. He is a member of the Freshman House Council.

Laundry Problem Causes Dish-pan Hands, Washer-Woman's Backs, and Blue Mondays

Now that the amount of laundry that students can send to the college laundry is limited, tattle-tale gray is gradually rubbing his hands and looking around for suitable hosts. Those students who enjoy the use of some with representatives from Harvard, and the student's exchange committee, are hoping to find a friend in the service of the end of the year. Of those three hundred families, the laundry is printed in various local stores.

CANOEING

Since Spring is here and an M.I.T. student can turn his thoughts to canoeing, the Beaverwars will devote most of this week's column to the privileges and obligations of those of us who share part of this sport.

The Beaverwars dictate canoeing regulations for Upper Lake. Those posted in the boat house, but seems that most students don't know about them. They are:

1. Any member of the college community may go in a canoe either as a paddler or passenger providing she has passed both the paddling test and the canoe knowledge test.

2. Written permission from home must be on file in the Office of the Dean of Residence.

3. The canoe house keys must not be leased or given to those who do not meet the above requirements. The keys may not be checked out at any time.

There shall be no canoeing after 9 p.m.

The maximum number that shall go in one canoe is four.

Single padding is permitted only if a single paddling test has been passed and if there is another canoe on the lake.

These regulations have been set up for the protection of the canoe owner, and unless they are obeyed, there will be no canoes left down on the dock for the other or the both! Canoes cost over $100.00, and A.A. is not prepared to replace very good supply since some of them are lost or damaged by our carelessness.

Last Sunday three canoes were left out all night. They might have been lost, stolen, or strayed. What probably happened was that someone took them out without a key and returned them to their original position without bothering to inform the Beaverwars.

This is one reason why to cause damage to someone's canoe without a key. There must always be at least two people in a canoe, and if one of them is not on deck, the canoe and her friends should not be left on the dock.

You may feel like going swimming. Relaxation is always a good thing to do. It makes your day run not only the risk of falling in, but making the canoe crew very angry and perhaps go over the falls. Othersafety rules for the canoe include:

1. Stepping or sliding in a canoe when it is on land, and not wearing shoes.
2. It is not advisable to have on a canoe, and at all times.
3. Safety for the canoe consists of:
   a. A well and a life belt.
   b. A well and a life belt.
   c. A well and a life belt.

 Treat your canoe as you would any other piece of valuable equipment, and take care of it. This canoe is your canoe, and care for it.

Canoes can be rented from the canoe office, and the charges are $1.00 per hour.

Canoes are available for canoe parties on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.
